

Lebanon Valley College

2015-2016 President's Report

Arch Bridge
Lebanon Valley College

In the reimagined Vernon and Doris Bishop Library, nostalgic and futurist visions of a college library converge. We've developed a 21st century library space that is uniquely LVC and a destination that is the envy of our peers in higher education. Students are collaborating with access to the latest technology for interdisciplinary problem solving.

There was never a question that Kathy, Thomas, and Trudie Bishop were focused on the future of the College and trying to anticipate the needs of a residential learning community. Their extraordinary $1.5 million commitment, made through the Bishop Foundation, to this project made it possible for this amazing renovation to occur.

The Lebanon Valley College community appreciates your generosity, your belief in our students, and your dedication to learning. Thank you!

KATHY BISHOP
(see pp. 5, 42, 55)

An Interview with Dr. Lewis E. Thayne

PRESIDENT OF LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

As the College's 150th Anniversary year comes to a close, this President's Report celebrates a century and a half of philanthropy at Lebanon Valley College, from the original gift made by five local families that established LVC, to the recent $10 million challenge gift made by Jeanne and Edward H. Arnold to build a $20 million facility to house our health professions departments. We sat down with LVC President Dr. Lewis E. Thayne to discuss the role of philanthropy in the success and future of the College.

Q. Why is a culture of philanthropy important to LVC?

A. I think "culture of philanthropy" may be a phrase we often hear, but I'm not sure everyone understands it in the same way. A culture of philanthropy is a network of relationships that are built up over time around shared values. It's about connecting people in a meaningful way with what we're trying to accomplish at the College, and it's about being willing to ask for help and support as we work toward goals that we all share.

Meaningful relationships do not just happen, and they are not one-sided. At LVC, we feel strongly that we need to reach out to our friends and alumni in ways that nourish their real and vital connection to the College. To this end, we've worked to make Homecoming and other alumni events even more exciting and meaningful, so that they're truly worth returning to campus for. We have revamped and re-formatted this magazine and increased substantive communication with alumni. Certainly we have asked for financial support. Moving forward, we're looking toward a comprehensive fundraising campaign that we hope will enable our friends and alumni to play a significant role in the future of the College.

Dan Helwig, vice president of advancement, and his team are finding through their outreach that alumni feel a tremendous amount of pride toward The Valley. They have a great curiosity about what is occurring on campus today. These alumni are happy with the experience they had as students, they remember how well prepared they were to launch their careers, and they've witnessed the increase in the value of their degrees over the years. We seek to respond to their pride and curiosity by inviting them back to Annville to connect with the College on a deeper level. Those who return to campus are consistently delighted by the care that has gone into improving the College's curricular and co-curricular experience, and by the quality of our new construction and renovation. This is the essence of our commitment to our alumni and friends: to be an institution worthy of their pride and their continued support and involvement.

Q. What role do you see philanthropy playing in achieving the goals of Envision 2020, the College's strategic plan?

A. Money can't solve every problem, but it can solve some problems. Formulating new academic programs is the work of the faculty, but having state-of-the-art facilities to house those programs is where philanthropy can make a difference. The Jeanne and Edward H. Arnold Health Professions Pavilion is an example where generous philanthropists stepped forward to support the College's academic vision while adding to our already strong programs in health professions.

But it's important to remember that while philanthropy can help the College be a better school, it can also help it to be a more affordable school. Scholarship dollars are always the most substantial dollars we raise, and that's something we want to focus on in Envision 2020.

Q. How do you see philanthropy assisting in implementing One Campus, the College's new campus master plan?

A. From the very beginning, place has been very important at Lebanon Valley College. This campus is central to the educational experience of our students. Leaders of the College have been excellent stewards of the campus, and that's going to continue. I've already mentioned the new Arnold Health Professions Pavilion as a prime example. The Bishop Library is another. Thanks to a $1.5 million gift from the Bishop Foundation, and its family members Kathy, Tom, and Trudie Bishop, we've transformed the library into one of the most popular student spaces on campus. Other examples where philanthropy has dramatically improved our campus experience include our athletic facilities, including the new Shankroff Tennis Center, and the revitalized Frederic K. Miller Chapel and Mary Capp Green Residence Hall.

Q. Why is it important for the alumni giving rate to increase over time?

A. One measure of the relevance of the College—the ongoing relationship between the College and its alumni—is alumni participation. We know through surveys that an exceptionally high percentage of our alumni are proud of the College and feel that they received an excellent education here, and yet the percentage of alumni who give to the College falls short of that. Alumni participation matters tremendously, and all small and large gifts matter. When people see that we've received a $10 million gift, they may think, "Oh well, my $50 won't make a difference." But the whole point of the Arnold's challenge gift is to inspire more people to give and to give more often. Private institutions do not have the luxury of depending on taxpayer assistance. In our case, if alumni and friends don't give, others will not follow. So alumni philanthropy is essential to the future of the College.

Q. If you were asked to give one reason why a donor should consider a gift to this College, what would it be?

A. That's easy: the impact our graduates will have on their communities and our society. Our students are exceptional young people. It's unthinkable that they might not have the support they need to be able to accomplish the things they've been inspired to do. Or that they might not have the facilities to provide them the very best education we're capable of giving them. Every time I make a gift—and I hope every time anyone else does—we should think about the students who will benefit.

Q. It all seems to come back to our impact on students, doesn't it?

A. Yes. It certainly does! It also sets an example for the future. Our students have always been exceptionally service-oriented and charitable themselves. I can't tell you how much money is raised on this campus, year in and year out, by student groups that support a variety of worthy causes. Philanthropy on the part of our alumni and friends helps encourage our students' charitable impulses in a way that bodes well for the future, not just of the College, but for our society at large.

FOUR campus facilities were recently transformed under the leadership of Dr. Lewis E. Thayne, LVC president. We highlight the four projects here.

The Vernon and Doris Bishop Library was revitalized into a center of technology, collaboration, and academic engagement through a $1.5 million gift from the Bishop Foundation, and family members Kathy, Thomas, and Trudie Bishop.

The Mary Capp Green Residence Hall was transformed this summer through $3 million in improvements, including the new kitchen/lounge area and multi-use seminar/conference room pictured here. These improvements will further connect the curricular and co-curricular student-learning experience. (l. to r.): Victor Lopez, Janessa Cruz '19, and Kara Strack '17

Major updates were made to the Frederic K. Miller Chapel through the generosity of Lois Brong Miller '61, Dr. Susan Engle '78, The Hershey Company (in memory of Richard A. Zimmerman H'92, former Hershey president and CEO), and other friends. The College Choir celebrated the new space with a 150th Anniversary performance during Homecoming Weekend in October.

The new Shankroff Tennis Center debuted in August. The premier tennis complex in the Middle Atlantic Conference was made possible through the generosity of Benjamin Shankroff, Suzanne Shankroff, Michael Beyer '80, June Beyer '80, and other College friends. Number one singles player Marla Scacchitti '18 tried out the new courts at a recent practice.

Editor's Note: We recently sat down with Jeanne Arnold H'08 and Edward H. Arnold H'87 to discuss their $10 million challenge gift to build the Jeanne and Edward H. Arnold Health Professions Pavilion, which opens in 2018. The Arnolds' $10 million gift is by far the largest ever made to LVC—and one of the largest ever made to a college in our region.

Jeanne Arnold, a former nurse and vice president at Good Samaritan Hospital, is a member of the College's Board of Trustees. She is active on numerous charitable boards locally and nationally. She received an honorary doctorate from LVC in 2008.

Edward H. Arnold, former owner and chief executive officer of Arnold Logistics and Arnold Industries, is a longtime member of the LVC Board of Trustees and now holds emeritus status. He is active with numerous charities and organizations in Lebanon County and the surrounding region. He received an honorary doctorate from LVC in 1987.

Q. Why did you make this historic challenge gift to help construct the Jeanne and Edward H. Arnold Health Professions Pavilion?

E. A challenge gift ensures that alumni and friends of the College learn about the innovative programs and projects that the LVC community is pursuing. Moreover, it encourages them to support the project because it basically doubles every gift they make to The Valley.

J. We enjoy using challenge gifts in our philanthropy because they inspire others to participate to make an even greater impact. Further, challenge gifts increase the College's visibility, which creates curiosity regarding important projects.

Q. Your gift will transform the College in many ways. What do you see as the greatest benefits of the new building?

J. The new building will help the College grow, particularly through the recent addition of new health care majors and other industry-related majors that are under consideration by the faculty. These majors are where the jobs are, and they represent a stepping stone toward challenging, but fulfilling, careers for our students.

E. LVC already has a strong reputation in the area, but the addition of high-demand health care majors will only enhance this reputation. My biggest concern is making sure that our students are job-ready when they graduate. Because of the country's aging population, the need for highly skilled health professions graduates will grow exponentially.

Q. What words of encouragement would you offer alumni and friends who are considering supporting this initiative?

J. The College is an excellent academic institution—it's an innovative place that offers a high level of academics and myriad opportunities for students. Our students have access to amazing experiences at LVC, whether through student-faculty research, international study, internships, or regional and national academic presentations. But all of this is possible only through donor support.

E. I want to emphasize that what is happening at the College, particularly through the Envision 2020 strategic plan, is good not only for the College, but for the nation. By expanding its health care-related offerings, LVC will provide its graduates with tremendous employment opportunities as it provides the country with much-needed, highly trained health care professionals. It's a win-win scenario in that this expansion will provide skilled practitioners who can help fill some specific—and critical—needs in our country.

J. This nation faces a health care crisis, particularly with the aging physician population. There is going to be a physician shortage, which means that other professionals, such as physician assistants, nurse practitioners, physical therapists, and speech-language therapists, are going to have to take a more active role in patient care. I see the College helping to fill that need.

Q. How do you see this facility increasing community partnerships?

J. The new building will provide unique opportunities for the College to expand some existing partnerships, such as our physical therapy students studying in the anatomy lab, and science majors working in the cancer research lab at Penn State Hershey. It could also lead to new and increased partnerships with other academic institutions and medical facilities in the region, which will help bring various groups together for the greater good.

E. I mentioned earlier that there is a growing need for health care professionals nationwide, but it is especially critical in Lebanon County, which has an aging population with many medical needs. The new building will enable the College to become a strong partner with the major medical providers in Hershey, Lancaster, and Lebanon, as well as with retirement communities and other area health care providers. The new building, and the skilled students it will help recruit to the area, will help fill a coming void.

Q. What benefits do you expect current and future students in programs such as athletic training, communication sciences & disorders, exercise science, physical therapy, and speech-language pathology to derive from this new facility?

“We enjoy using challenge gifts in our philanthropy because they inspire others to participate to make an even greater impact.”

—Jeanne Arnold

E. As Jeanne noted, the health care industry is changing rapidly, so LVC has to continue to provide the greatest possible education in this area. To do this, it must provide the best possible facilities to attract and retain the best students and faculty.

Great professors want to teach at a place that clearly prioritizes their area of expertise. The new building will also attract better students, who know they will learn on the latest equipment from the finest faculty, which ultimately results in strong job placement and career prospects.

J. The Physical Therapy Program has been extremely successful, so successful in fact that it needs additional space and equipment. This new facility will provide additional space for all of our health professions programs, and will be designed so that learning can be easily integrated with other programs housed in the health professions pavilion. It's going to be special!

Q. Ed, your family has a long history of philanthropy and involvement at LVC. Tell us about this friendship.

E. Our family has always been involved in trying to help Lebanon County flourish, and Lebanon Valley College is an important part of that. Many LVC graduates remain in the area, going on to become teachers, doctors, ministers, lawyers, and more, so the College is an important part of the future of Lebanon County. Specifically, our family has always recognized the value of education so, given LVC's academic credentials, it was a natural connection.

Q. Jeanne, you have extensive experience as a nurse, hospital administrator, and philanthropist. What special insights does this help you bring to the table for projects such as the new Jeanne and Edward H. Arnold Health Professions Pavilion?

J. I am active on numerous boards in health care and with the national council for the Boy Scouts of America, and increasingly I see the need for organizations to collaborate—to share their distinctive skills or programs—in order to be successful. As an LVC trustee, I hope to bring some of these connections together, including between the College and the Hershey Medical Center, where I also serve on the board.

That is one of the things Ed and I can bring to the College. We both feel that we want to get up every morning with a purpose, and to spend the day doing things that benefit others. It's rewarding to see that many of the connections we facilitated between organizations now help people exponentially. The greater the College's participation in these collaborations, the greater the benefit to our students, and ultimately, the community. We're pleased to know that we're setting an example for these students, and we hope that they will become the donors and leaders of the future and continue to make a difference in the lives of others.

Q. What do you find most rewarding about your work at the College?

E. Working with the faculty. They're doing interesting things about which they're very excited, and their excitement is contagious.

The actuarial science major is a great example where the faculty have done a tremendous job in creating an excellent program with a national reputation, in a way we need to emulate: Rather than competing against larger schools, we need to realize that we can't be all things to all people but instead focus on being especially good in some distinctive fields.

Adding a forward-thinking health professions facility will help the College continue to attract impressive faculty and great students. All of this will enhance LVC's reputation—and its possibilities.

J. For me, it's the relationships that I've developed, including those with my fellow board members and the students. It's nice to know that you are appreciated, a member of the team, not just for the money we donate but also for the knowledge and experience we offer, and because we're building relationships along a shared mission and goals.

My very favorite part of being a member of the College family is interacting with the students, whether having them at our home, watching them present at the Arnold Grants luncheon, or working with the women's basketball team for the annual Pink Game. I feel such pride in being part of this organization and seeing that our support is making a difference. Moreover, like Ed, I give gratitude to the faculty who get involved, above and beyond expectations, to help our student grant recipients succeed, whether they are conducting scientific research in Puerto Rico or Spain, interning with politicians in Washington, D.C., or inspiring young music students in Brazil. It's wonderful to provide opportunities for our students and faculty—and to see the great results of our philanthropy.

E. I'd also like to add that the current strong leadership of the College is an important part of the equation. These are challenging times, and I'm glad that we have strong leadership with new ideas. We have to adapt to these changing times, particularly in American higher education, and the current leadership realizes this and is responding.

A HISTORY OF Philanthropy

As the years roll on, I see the children, grandchildren, and a long line of their descendants flocking back to this spot bringing with them thank-offerings to endow the College and provide the needed means for the highest and best education.

—1892, Thomas Rhys Vickroy, first College president (1866–1871)

From the day of its founding in 1866, Lebanon Valley College has achieved great success and academic recognition due to the extraordinary generosity of those of you who believed in this great institution. Thank you!

Your financial support has enabled students to learn from the best faculty, experience innovative and engaging learning opportunities, and prepare themselves to be global- and job-ready citizens. In very real and tangible ways, this community of support builds the endowment, which in turn provides scholarship funds. It creates unique opportunities, such as study and service abroad, that would not be possible otherwise. It makes dreams possible. This circle of support helps extend the College's impact throughout campus and into the world.

As we near the end of the College's 150th Anniversary celebration, we look back at the rich history of the College through the lens of this generous philanthropic support. In addition, we consider upcoming needs as we move into our next 150 years.

1866—The East Pennsylvania Conference of the United Brethren Church accepts an offer from five Annville businessmen—Rudolph Herr, George A. Mark Jr., Rev. L.W. Craumer, John H. Kinports, and George W. Hoverter—to purchase the Annville Academy for $4,500 and donate it to the conference to “establish and maintain forever an institution of learning of high grade...” The College’s first president, Thomas Rhys Vickroy (1866–1871), recognizing that the College could not survive on tuition payments alone, immediately called for the establishment of an endowment to support the College.

1871–1876—The first College scholarships are offered, and possibly the first endowment campaign started, during President Lucian H. Hammond’s tenure. Deceased in 2015-2016

DEC. 1889—Students donate a new bell for the Administration Building—the first student-led philanthropic gift. This tradition continues today with recent gifts, including a new beach volleyball court and the Flying Dutchman mascot uniform. Known as the Senior Gift Drive, funds raised by these students support The Valley Fund, scholarships and financial aid, academic departments, athletics, cultural activities, and other immersive experiences.

THOMAS RHYS VICKROY SOCIETY

Named after our founding president, Thomas Rhys Vickroy, The Vickroy Society recognizes leadership gifts of $1,000 or more given to the College for any purpose during each academic year. The Society is open to all alumni, parents, and friends of the College on an annual basis.

Members of The Thomas Rhys Vickroy Society provide financial aid to deserving students, keep academic resources current, and ensure that each student receives the best education that Lebanon Valley College has to offer. The laurel wreath is the symbol for The Vickroy Society. An important element of the College seal, it represents honor and excellence, and thereby, the exceptional generosity Vickroy Society members have shown to Lebanon Valley College.

I899—Benjamin H. Engle, a Harrisburg contractor and trustee of the College from 1898-1911, donates funds to underwrite the construction of Engle Hall, later known as the Engle Conservatory. This may be the first College building named in honor of a donor—and marks the beginning of the Engle family's generous philanthropic connection with the College, which continues to the present day. This past summer, Dr. Susan Engle '78 contributed $100,000 to the renovation of the Frederic K. Miller Chapel.

JAN. II, 1905—President Hervin Ulysses Roop (1897–1906), Class of 1892, announces that Pittsburgh industrialist and philanthropist Andrew Carnegie had pledged $50,000 to the College for rebuilding after the Christmas Eve fire that destroyed the College's Administration Building. It was Carnegie's second generous gift to LVC. In 1904, Carnegie had given $20,000 to construct the Carnegie Library. The new pledge was made on the condition that an equal sum be raised by the College, thus establishing the College's first successful challenge gift. Funds poured in from trustees, faculty, and the greater community, and Andrew Carnegie made good on his pledge on Oct. 10, 1905.

JUNE 12, 1907—Lawrence W. Keister (1907–1912) becomes the ninth president of Lebanon Valley College. The College was more than $89,000 in debt, and within a year, the College's debt exceeded $92,000. But Keister was a member of a prominent family with interests in western Pennsylvania coal mines. Keister reduced spending, increased income, and prevailed on his wealthy family to donate generously to the College. By the end of his tenure, the College's debt was reduced by some $43,000.

SUMMER 1912—George Daniel Gossard (1912–1932) becomes the 10th president of Lebanon Valley College. Under his leadership, enrollment grows from 226 in 1913 to 709 in 1931, and the faculty increases from five in 1913 to 24 in 1932. In addition, the school's debt was liquidated, the endowment grew to more than $900,000, budgets were balanced, and the College received Middle States accreditation for the first time.

JAN. 15, 1913—LVC's Class of 1913 donates the clock in the tower of the Administration Building, furthering the strong tradition of student philanthropy at the College.

1924—A new endowment campaign is launched with a goal of $575,000—though the campaign ultimately raises more than $700,000. On April 25, the United Brethren Church pledged $175,000 to the campaign if the College could raise double that amount, or $350,000. At the time, this was nearly the largest single gift ever made to any cause in the history of the denomination. The challenge was met, in part, by a $60,000 donation from College alumni in honor of John Evans Lehman, a professor emeritus of mathematics and astronomy who had taught at The Valley for 40 years. As an Annville teenager in 1866, Lehman, Class of 1874, carried mortar to build the MARCH 23, 1943—Under the leadership of President Clyde A. Lynch (1932–1950), Class of 1918, the College launches its “Bearing the Torch” fundraising campaign with a goal of raising $550,000 for building a new gymnasium, bolstering the endowment, and further paying down debt. On May 19, 1944, President Lynch made a cheerful report to the Board of Trustees indicating that the goal had been reached, despite the campaign having taken place during the “difficult war years.” By 1945, the College was free of debt and held an endowment of $1 million at the time. Several previous presidents had launched endowment campaigns with some success. However, much of the endowment funds they did raise were devastated by the Great Depression.

1955—President Frederic K. Miller (1950–1967) announces the launch of the “Pattern for Progress” fundraising campaign. Its original goal was $900,000, but ultimately raised $1.09 million. On May 18, 1957, three buildings made possible by the campaign were dedicated: the George Daniel Gossard Memorial Library, the Science Building (constructed in memory of long-time professors Dr. Andrew Bender, Class of 1906, and Dr. Samuel Derickson, Class of 1902), and the Mary Capp Green Residence Hall for Women (named in honor of the long-time social dean of women).

FEB. II, 1957—Dr. Vivia B. Appleton, a Honolulu, Hawaii, physician, and Miss Elizabeth Appleton donate $25,000 to endow the Judge S.C. Huber Scholarship and the Cora Appleton Huber Scholarship in memory of their parents. Judge Huber graduated from LVC in 1892 and served as a judge in Honolulu for many years. The purpose of the scholarships, according to Dr. Appleton, was “to help superior students to become better and more useful citizens.” Dr. and Miss Appleton established an enduring legacy by creating these scholarships and have positively affected generations of LVC students. Still awarded today, these scholarships continue to help students afford an LVC education.

AUG. 20, 1963—The Lebanon Daily News announces that a remarkable 48 percent of College alumni had made financial contributions to the College during the previous fiscal year. Donations from alumni that year topped $45,000, with total donations exceeding $140,000.

MARCH 1965—The College trustees launch the “Centennial Fund” campaign with a goal of $1.3 million. Campaign funds, which ultimately totaled $1.6 million, made possible the construction of a campus chapel and renovations to Clyde A. Lynch '18 Memorial Hall, as well as building the endowment.

SEPT. 1966—The College's endowment reaches $2,238,281—a remarkable growth of nearly $1.9 million in 42 years, testifying to the College community's strong support and the administration's careful fiscal management.

EARLY 1970S—The College launches the first phase of its "Fund for Fulfillment" campaign, which targeted monies for the construction of a student center, music building, the pedestrian bridge over the railroad, the endowment, and other purposes. The campaign's initial goal was $4.5 million, which again was exceeded—by September 1978, pledges totaled more than $4.6 million.

MID 1970S—The College launches the second phase of the “Fund for Fulfillment” campaign to raise $10 million for the construction of a new science center (later named the Garber Science Center in honor of Dr. Dale Garber, Class of 1918, and his wife, Ellen). The Garbers donated $1.75 million to the science project in 1981, the largest gift in the history of the College at that time. By November 1983, the campaign had exceeded its goal by $400,000.

APRIL 1987—Construction begins on the Edward H. Arnold Sports Center, home to Dutchmen Athletics and numerous student fitness activities.

JUNE 16, 1994—The Zimmerman Recital Hall, housed in the Suzanne H. Arnold Gallery, is dedicated. The hall is named in honor of Richard A. Zimmerman H'92, and his wife, Nancy C. Zimmerman '53, who both served on the College's Board of Trustees. Richard, who retired as president and CEO of Hershey Foods in 1993, died in 2014. The Hershey Company made a $250,000 memorial gift honoring Richard Zimmerman's service and charitable works. On his passing and in consultation with his widow, Nancy, a portion of the gift was designated in support of the 2016 restoration of the Frederic K. Miller Chapel.

NOV. 4, 1994—The Suzanne H. Arnold Art Gallery is dedicated. Made possible, in part, by a gift from Suzanne Arnold Schrotberger H'96, College benefactor and founding chair of the College Art Committee, the Gallery is housed in the retired St. Paul's Lutheran Church on North White Oak Street, which the College had purchased in 1971. Suzanne Arnold Schrotberger would later donate $1 million to build the Heilman Center, current home to the College's Athletic Training, Exercise Science, and Physical Therapy programs. She continues to be one of the Gallery's most generous benefactors.

1997—LVC launches the $50 million “Great Expectations” campaign, ultimately raising $55.5 million—“the largest single fundraising effort in the College’s history.” The new Heilman Center, Louis A. Sorrentino Gymnasium, a revitalized Clyde A. Lynch ’18 Memorial Hall, and redesigned Neidig-Garber Science Center resulted from the campaign, which was inspired by a $5 million leadership gift from Jeanne Donlevy Arnold H’08 and Edward H. Arnold H’87.

JAN. 24, 2014—The College received a gift in excess of $1.384 million from the estate of Howard F. Lebegern '49 and Margaret Neal Lebegern. The Lebegerns had been members of The Thomas Rhys Vickroy Society since 2000 and had provided financial support to LVC throughout their lives. Proceeds from the Lebegerns' gift helped underwrite the renovation of the Allan W. Mund College Center's lower level, creating the Lebegern Learning Commons, a communal space encouraging active, engaged learning for all LVC students.

JUNE 2016—Renovations to the Frederic K. Miller Chapel are completed. In addition to the aforementioned gift from Lois Brong Miller '61, the College received a major gift from Dr. Susan Engle '78 toward the chapel renovation in celebration of her family's many contributions to Lebanon Valley College. The Engle family—for whom the chapel lobby is named—has been friends of the College since 1890, when family members first began serving on the Board of Trustees, and the family's generosity has helped grow and beautify the campus and support students ever since. Engle family members have graduated from Lebanon Valley, served on the faculty and Board of Trustees, and established three endowed scholarships.

SUMMER 2016—The Vernon and Doris Bishop Library underwent a dramatic revitalization thanks to a $1.5 million gift from the Bishop Foundation, and family members Kathy, Thomas, and Trudie Bishop. The gift enables the College to invigorate the first floor of the Bishop Library and provide technological advancements for generating and sharing ideas. “Technology and the digital age are transforming our world in ways that we could not have imagined 20 years ago when the Bishop Library was built,” noted Kathy Bishop, vice chair of the LVC Board of Trustees. “My family is proud to facilitate the transformation of the Bishop Library to support this new learning environment.”

Establishing your legacy

A planned gift to Lebanon Valley College can help create a lasting and meaningful impact on students, deliver a tax deduction for you, and may even increase your income. Such gifts—often bequests—have provided millions of endowment dollars to support our students through scholarships, research funds, facility needs, and countless other critical resources.

If you choose to include The Valley as part of your estate plans, please share your plans with the College. You'll join more than 100 other members of the Miles Rigor Society, and we'll help you turn your dreams and generosity into a lasting legacy of support for the College you love.

WAYS TO GIVE

- REMEMBER LVC IN YOUR WILL
- CONSIDER A CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY AND INCREASE YOUR INCOME
- NAME LVC AS A BENEFICIARY IN YOUR RETIREMENT PLAN

Learn more about planned giving opportunities and membership in the Miles Rigor Society by contacting Joseph Martellaro, director of gift planning, at 717-867-6323 or martella@lvc.edu. You can also visit www.lvc.edu/plannedgiving.
